

The Graduate Gallery

The Graduate Gallery

The Team

Isabel Getty started out working for Marc Quinn as a studio assistant before working in real estate development, collaborating with her company to find artists' works for clients and representing independent artists.

Stephanie Cavalcanti has worked in various galleries both in the United States and the United Kingdom. Her experience includes working for Marian Goodman Gallery and Gagosian Gallery in New York City, David Kordansky Gallery and Various Small Fires in Los Angeles, and most recently at David Zwirner in London.

The Graduate Gallery

Our Mission

The Graduate Gallery coordinates meticulously curated exhibitions, championing the cause of emerging artists.

Our mission is to provide vital support and nurture emerging talent, operating akin to traditional art patronage, with the aim of connecting artists to a broader and appreciative audience.

Though we often collaborate with artists from art schools, we are not limited to only working with graduates.

Our commitment lies in both supporting artists on their artistic path and introducing their work to experienced collectors, igniting inspiration in art enthusiasts and seasoned collectors alike.

Our Artists

The Graduate Gallery curates a roster of emerging and independent artists, each chosen with care and precision. Our exhibition serves as a nurturing platform, dedicated to cultivating and championing each artist within The Graduate's network, ultimately integrating them into the esteemed community of established and discerning clientele.

Events include

Press Evening

VIP client event

Public Event

One-on-one meetings

Location

Founded in London, we are currently prioritising showcasing artists locally.